5 Important Tips to Get Started on Piano Lessons Online by Aithely Zorge

Article published on March 15th 2012 | Advertising

When you are ready to start learning how to play piano, you might want to take piano lessons online to see if the piano is really what you want as your instrument. The information age, as we now call it has led to the era of the internet which has changed the face of how piano can be learnt through piano lessons online. Many years back, piano lessons were learnt in a traditional way whereby a student would try finding a good piano teacher based on recommendations or newspaper advertisements and learn how to play piano with the teacher using piano sheet music.

For many people who have always wanted to learn how to play music, piano has been their first choice. The world is moving to a phase where everything needs to move at the speed of light, this being communication, transport, entertainment, etc. Creators of piano lessons have embraced this changed via the creation of piano lessons online.

There are many choices of piano lessons online that you can find by searching on the internet. However, this can make you confused as to how to select the best one for you. The smart way to find the most appropriate one for you is to research, list down the websites that offer online piano lessons and filter through them based on criteria which you feel are important to make you achieve your musical goals.

Before joining up for any piano lessons online, here are 5 important tips that should be considered.

1. Reviews and Testimonials

Reviews and testimonials from customers really work and are powerful! The pair represents one of the most important things that you should be listing down as part of your criteria. Sites which have received good reviews and are being used by a large number of people to learn how to play piano will imply that the piano lessons must be of good and reputable quality. You will find that piano lessons online gives you the opportunity to easily check for these reviews and testimonials, something which is not as easy to find out on the street or from people. Some of these sites contain video or written testimonials. Video ones are far more realistic than any other form of testimonials.

2. Ability to Learn at Your Own Pace

Piano lessons online should be well suited for your requirements whether you are young or old, beginner, intermediate or advanced. Check to see if you can complete each lesson plan within your own timeframe before you move on to the next one. Read the description provided on the site to see whether the lessons are easy enough so that you can grasp the lesson concepts on your own without anyoneâ€™s help. Also check to see that you can get help from the site owners or team via their contact page or if there is a forum they have where you can ask your questions. This will enable you to move forward with 100% confidence that you are ready to learn something new. If you feel that you need to be pushed to learn how to play, then it may be better to learn it in a traditional way from a piano teacher.

3. Pricing and Costs

Learning online is an excellent option for those people who are busy in their daily lives. Research and check for the prices of piano lessons found online and compare that to the fees charged by piano teachers. Make sure you compare them on a similar timeframe i.e. lesson numbers to reach to a certain experience level. You will find that costs for learning piano lessons online will be much cheaper than learning from qualified piano teacher. During the initial learning phase, it may be ideal to go for online piano lessons. Once you are experienced and need advanced training skills, you can then search and approach qualified piano teachers to groom you to a fine pianist.

4. What Are You Really Getting?

This is a good question to ask as various piano lessons online differ in what they provide to you when you purchase their course. Some provide physical products like DVDs, CDs and workbooks which are then mailed out to you for learning at home at your own pace whilst others provide downloadable music files in mp3 format, access to video files, online membersâ€™ forum and unlimited online help. The files can be downloaded in a matter of seconds and hey presto!...you can start learning straight away. You have to consider what you really want and what way you are comfortable with. Some older people prefer more or physical products while younger people and children prefer learning online due to ease in which they can learn and the comfort.

5. Order Security and Guarantees

You will find that as you filter through various online piano lessons, some companies offer these lessons with no risk, full money back guarantees up to a limited number of days say 30, 60 or 90. These are powerful statements implying that the people behind those companies believe in their product 100% and you do not have much to lose if you do not like the piano lessons online. Ordering and paying for the piano lessons online has also become very safe and secure as you can pay by credit cards (which usually have some form of fraud protection if anything goes wrong) or through online payment providers such as Paypal.
