Here we give some tips for how to buy a used car:

1. Initial inspection

The first thing to check is the overall condition of the car. It has all bumps, dents or scratches, and if so, does this cost? Check the condition of the tires to make sure they are road legal or to see if they need to replace soon. Verify that the front and rear lights have no damage, and control body works by rust of used car. Look under the vehicle to check for any leaks, and even check garage sales fore-court or driveway to see if there are any signs of oil leaks.

2. Test drive

The best way to get a feel for the car is out of it on a test drive of second hand car. Then you will see how the car handles and whether the car feels is for you. It is also a great way to determine whether a car is a stork or knocking sounds and also checks if everything works, such as indicators, lights or stereo. If the owner refuses to try you must ask why they do it and that perhaps the two of the agreement.

If you follow these two steps then you will surely get a good second hand and used car in better condition.
