Whenever there is growth in technology,it is also accompanied by certain elements of reduction and shortfall.The same is true with the development of web world and its free access anywhere. Now it is possible for all of us to stay connected with other person on live chat through the internet service. Hence,there is huge demand for internet service providers who offers cheap and best packages. This would be the best option for common individuals who use internet for searching,chatting and for entertainment purpose.But the same will not hold well with the employees who work for company.When it becomes official work, exchange of information can be hacked anytime. In order to prevent this and for giving additional protection to their workers,several private networks are being created exclusively. These are called virtual private network and it is possible for you to gain access through VPN mobile and laptops.

By using the private network, hawkers cannot look into any of the files or program of individual companies.It efficiently protects unauthorized persons for gaining entry into the data files and other software applications.There exist plenty of virtual networks which prevent the hackers who use their network application.If you have the sim-card and drive,you can also access internet service in laptops and mobile devices using this network. The network uses only the portable drives for accessing internet service through their application.In case of regular network services, you can also use cable network or pen-drive applications.

Let us suppose that you are on official tour to some country and there you need not have to share data of the company or daily proceedings through pubic network services.It is enough if you carry a drive or any other portable device for sharing company details with the head office.Another advantage in using the portable device for internet connection is you need not bother about power failure anymore.Further, you need not physically go to office for knowing the fresh updates in your department. Every other news can be shared using independent network which is maintained by your company.For many mothers who prefer 'work from home' option,these devices will help them to stay connected with office using simple methods. Now employees can use a VPN mobile service which is a wireless service for accessing internet and important office document even when they are not in office.The company will give you a password for gaining access and all you have to do is to type the password to get connected.
