A law firm is a congregation of one or more than one lawyers at a place, whose purpose is practicing law. These legal firms have clients who seek the solicitors of the firm to take care of their legal rights as well all the responsibilities. Also when these clients need to face a legal allegation or any kind of cases, these firms provide the perfect solicitors to represent their clients for the cases in the court. These cases may be civil or criminal; the law firm is abiding to provide the relevant assistance to their clients in the respective needs.

If we talk about the count of law firms in India, the number may shoot up to several thousands. Many of the law firms here are very old and reputed in their fields. The law firms in the metro and major cities of the country are however more popular and sought after. The major cities would include the law firms in Delhi, law firms in Mumbai, law firms in Hyderabad, law firms in Chennai and last but not the least the law firms in Bangalore.

Registered and reputed law firms in Delhi are about 50 in number. Most of these firms have good rankings in the world, in terms of legal practice and conferring the service. Many of these law firms are multinational and deal with a particular genre of law practice. For example, a law firm may exclusively provide the legal services on the issues related to intellectual property or trademark registration issues. These offices recruit thousands of employees other than the solicitors, which maintain and work for the office keeping. Therefore the law firms generate quite many job opportunities for the people.

All big cities of the country have thousands of offices and hundreds of thousands of people working in them. Not only offices but people individually as well, hire these law firms for their personal and professional issues. Law firms in Mumbai are available based in each aspect of legal and judicial requirements.

You get to select from the genre, firms which appeals to you. This line might sound very cheesy, but is indeed quite true for the city of dreams. Hyderabad is another city which provides the facility of law firms based in their respective area of practice. Whether it be business, environmental, personal, criminal or an issue related to fraudulency you get to choose from exactly the kind of need you are seeking it for. The categorization of law firms in Chennai based on their area of practice, constitute in total of about 64 law firms. This gives a wide range of options for the client to choose from based upon his requirement and need.

If we talk about the number of law firms in Bangalore, well not to surprise you, Bangalore is the silicon city of India, and it has more than 5000 registered IT companies. This may explain the number of law firms in the city which is one short of 100 i.e. 99.

This huge number of companies would obviously come with large number of legal issues, more often than not. Therefore in such a situation, the need for a law firm, not only arises, but is mandatory. This is the reason why, the number of law firms is increasing in the city lately.
