BIMTECH Alumni conduct two multi city meets by Esquared

Article published on April 17th 2012 | College

In February, Bangaloreâ€™s Cha Bar at the Leela Palace became the meeting place for those located in the garden city. Together, they connected on conference calls with BIMTECH alumni located in the cities of Mumbai and Kolkata.

On 18 March, 2012, the second BIMTECH Alumni Group meeting took place in Delhi. Dressed in semi formals the batch of 1996 met over a buffet dinner at Gulmohar Park Club, Delhi. The meet was attended by BIMTECH Director Dr. H. Chaturvedi. Chief Guest of the evening was popular BIMTECH ex-faculty Dr. Dayanand Pandey (Fondly called DNP). Several NCR alums met that evening and managed to include a member who had recently moved from Bangalore to Delhi. He and his wife were welcomed warmly into the group. Together they relived the nostalgia of days spent at BIMTECH. One of the main discussions was finding ways to connect and network with other BIMTECH Alumni and increasing the strength of the group. A presence in social media like Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter would make it easy for interactions and instant updates. Information on events, workshops, forums etc would also be added on the alumni portal, http://alumni.bimtech.ac.in, which would include information on regional activities so as to facilitate communication.

Even though the number of members is currently small, they have already created an India wide audio bridge which can be used by the various chapters to conference/talk for both intra as well as inter chapter communication.

At the meetings, BIMTECH Alumni discussed various ways of including ALL alumni into the group, including the new graduates who pass out every year. The idea was to provide a platform for the BIMTECH fraternity to network. To do this they would need a directory that would be circulated among all the members, and was already in the process of being compiled. Each member would be requested to update their details.

Before and after every meeting, office bearers would discuss ideas and developments over con-calls or via Skype. A financial budget was required to drive developments and fund meetings. Following an initial registration fee, annual subscriptions would finance chapter activities.

In keeping with the â€˜each one teach oneâ€™ principle, members would reach out to other BIMTECH alumni and bring them into the Alumni Group fold. The whole idea is to stay in touch, network, discuss developments, help each other and keep the BIMTECH bond alive, today, tomorrow and forever.
