Discover the techniques of Image manipulation by Abdul G

Article published on December 30th 2011 | Photography

Photographers from around the world take picture in different places with different exposures and at times make use of flash also. When these images are uploaded into the computer, it needs to be corrected in certain aspects for example, color corrected, contrast corrected, brightness, gamma correction etc.

Image manipulation is an image editing technique basically used to manipulate images in various aspects. An image when gazed upon has multiple areas of concern that needs to be corrected accurately. Some images need technical corrections, some others may consist of objects unnecessary and many more. Manipulating with these aspects of an image is photo manipulation. Image manipulation is a technique which was followed way back in the 1800â€™s. During when image manipulation was done using ink, paint, cutting photographs, air brushes. After the invention of computers, the term air brushing has totally vanished into Image editing and not air brushing. Image manipulation is a very skill dependent task.

Image manipulation process also cares for an individual to go out of the line and add special highlights to the objects that require to be highlighted. Image manipulation service also includes color correction, light composure correction, contrast correction and many more basic aspects of photo manipulation. Photo manipulation can be done in 2 ways- digital and analog. Photos that are captured by a digital camera are transferred into a computer and Photoshop software is used for photo manipulation. Photoshop provides a wide range of tools in this area of Image editing. In addition to all this, colors can also be added to a black & white image.

Photo manipulation is done for banners design, fliers, logo design etc. These are some of the images that are outsourced because that is the best way to get through and display the outcome o so proudly over the Internet or elsewhere. We as a company hire and train a team for each of these image editing techniques. There are men not only trained on these terms but also to work around the clock in order to produce a quick turnaround time.
