Of course, there are ways to fulfill your Tera gold need other than grinding through endless hordes of enemies and picking up their pocket change as well.

Like any other MMORPGs, TERA online gold can be found from defeating monsters, doing quests, and PvP. Every time you kill one monster, no matter it is a crabby one or BAM, you will get some amount of gold upto the power of your victim. Some monsters drop rare item which can be sold at high price. Completing both main quest and side quest is another good choice to increase your gold in a pocket. You will get some gold as a rewards when finishing quests, and you can complete multiples quest at the same time because they have a same target.

If you want to get your hands on the mother load of Tera online gold then one option is to seek out a service that will allow you to spend real world money to buy gold in the Tera world. Buying Tera gold is one option to give you new suit of armor, or the hugely powerful weapon that you want, but you just can't nickel and dime your way to it. For a handful of real dollars, not much more than you pay for your Tera subscription fee as it is, you can get a huge financial injection of Tera online gold into your online account. There are often services provided by the same companies that will also grind your character, fighting and leveling so that when you come back you have a more powerful version ready to play.

But why would you need gold that badly when playing Tera? After all, isn't the game designed to let you fight and win with skill and strategy just as much as it is with brute force? Yes, but if you want to really advance your character and make sure that you have the best edge money can buy, you need to have the money to buy it in the first place, which you can buy it from Tera gold online. And no matter how strong or clever you are, no matter how careful you are to always pick fights you can win, sometimes you really just need to have the best possible equipment to really let you come out on top. And if you're ambushed by a horde, you'll be glad that you earned your gold and that you invested in ways that saved your character's life in the end.
