What to Look for in a Brochure Printer by Robert Johnston

Article published on March 12th 2012 | Advertising

Perhaps the hardest part in a marketing campaign is the need to come up with a smart strategy that will stir peopleâ€™s curiosity and capture their attention. Not everyone has a huge marketing budget that will allow them to create high end, elaborate, and expensive tools and strategies. However, there are always ways to get professional help without spending a fortune. If, for instance, you want to create brochures, there with surely be a cheap brochure printing company that will help you with your project.

But how do you ensure that you are hiring the right printing company? What are the things you need to consider to find the right printer for the job? Hereâ€™s what you need to look into a brochure printer:

1) Samples of previous work. A credible and professional printer offers samples of their work. They will send you some of their works for you to check. If the printer refuses to give you samples, you are better off without them. Just look for another printer who will be willing to give you free samples.

2) Excellent customer service. When you contact a printer, the first thing you need to look into is the quality of customer service? Is the staff friendly? Are they helpful? Do they respond to your queries at once? If you are not happy with the way the staff handled your queries, better move on. Chances are the printer wonâ€™t handle the entire print effectively.

3) Look at the printing equipment. Does the printer uses high-tech printing equipment? Ask the printer what kind of printing techniques and equipment they use. Make sure they use high quality presses so you can guarantee of the quality of printing you will get. Because your brochure will need folding, you also have to ensure that the printer has good folding equipment.

4) Check out the price. As much as you want the most affordable print job, you still have to consider the quality of printing you get. It will help if you compare prices first so you know that you are getting the best job at the most competitive price. Also, be ware of hidden prices. Make sure that the price you have agreed on should be the only amount you need to pay. There should be no unnecessary additional charges. Itâ€™s best if you carefully scrutinize the bill given to you.

5) Look into the delivery date. Some print shops offer fast turnaround time. This is perfect for businesses on a tight deadline. If you need you brochures at once, look for a printer that will give you a fast delivery date. Make sure though that you donâ€™t sacrifice the quality for a fast turnaround time.

These are just a guide on how to find the right printer. If you have additional requirements, by all means follow it. You are the only persona who knows the kind of print job you need, after all. Itâ€™s always best to shop around first so you have plenty of choices.

Printing brochures should not be a complicated job. Finding a reliable printer will ensure the proper fulfillment of your printing need. With the myriad of choices today, there will surely be a printer that will satisfy your need. Remember to shop around and compare prices so you donâ€™t regret your choice in the end.
