Money Saving Guidelines for Printer Ink Cartridges by Richard Donna

Article published on August 22nd 2012 | Hardware

Do you really feel that you are spending a lot more than your budget on the printer ink, even much more than what your inkjet printer deserves? Certainly, you are not alone! Many people across the globe spend a big amount on the printer cartridges much more than what they spent on their printer. Going into details, there are different types of inks that are available in the market for inkjet printers. Namely â€“

Genuine ink â€“ original inks produced by manufacturers of your printer and are really costly.

Generic ink â€“ common inks produced to be used with all types of printers and are very common among people.

Re-manufactured ink â€“ recyclable inks used that can be recycled after every use.

Imagine when you are taking a print of your most important document and the ink finishes. You are stuck nowhere and that is what makes you refill your printer with ink cartridges each time it runs off. But buying printer ink after every few weeks is really a costly affair. There might not be a way to reduce your printer usage but you can certainly go for saving money on ink cartridges. Is it possible? Yes! See howâ€¦

1. Try to buy printer ink in bulk, this will definitely fetch you a good deal and low prices as purchased in a lot.

2. Searching for a good dealer is equally important. A good, accountable dealer will charge a genuine price for the ink cartridges.

3. To avoid paying extra to some expensive dealer, research online or ask your peers to suggest you a reliable source for ink cartridges.

4. Above all, there are various ways of usage of the printer cartridges that can help to cut down the amount of printer ink used. For instance, cleaning your printer on regular basis. Cleaning your printer on a regular basis will aid in preventing the wastage of printer ink that results from having to reprint streaky or smeared printouts.

5. Another successful way to save money on printer cartridges is to shift your printer on economy mode or draft mode that retrains the over use of the ink while printing.

6. Moreover, you can also opt for refilling of cartridges rather than buying new cartridges. As this may help you save a lot. Do not worry, even the refilled cartridges give the same results and printing quality as the new ink cartridges do.

7. Never go for a three-in-one cartridge that is again a costly decision in long run.

Keep these guidelines in notice when next time your printer ink runs off and you will definitely save some money.
