The best way through which patent companies can derive the maximum financial profits is by hiring the patent holding companies. The main purpose or rather intention beyond this to load and get access to the mind of these organizations. These are the only organizations through which cases relating to tax deductions, following the legal suite for renewals, agreeing upon an amount as penalization for unlawful selling of ideas, copying concepts and selling privileges secretly are dealt against a culprit.

In cases where a patent has been exploited, the company can take legal actions against the culprits who can be any individual or a company as well. Whoever be the offender, any person who is a license holder for any part of the thesis is also legally entitled to seek compensation for the offense. In case where a patent belongs to an individual who has the backing of many companies, only the victim can seek compensation and not the companies on the ground that the individual is the actual owner and discover.

Therefore, for people who hire a third party holding agency, the agency should try to enter into a non exclusive permit deal with the individual. This will give the company a complete liberty of dealing with other parties. This in turn is going to make the dealer which in this case is the supporting company financially entitled to the profits incurred and this way earn a share of the money from the patent holder. Under such an agreement, the owner is bound to pay a certain percent of the profits to the company. At times, people who are unable to pay might even surrender their right of litigations which is going to make the supporting agency the owner of the patent.
