Counterfeit Car Parts Can Endanger the Authenticity by Robert Vadra

Article published on February 8th 2012 | Auto

However much we avoid counterfeit products in any medium we all must have encountered these products in some form or the other. You can easily get fake sunglasses, purses to fake branded watches. Many people get hold of these products to get a taste of good life with lesser amount of money. But if you come across Toyota parts that are not genuine then it may cause huge problems in the functioning of the car.

The counterfeiters have become more technologically advanced there are more fake parts that are actually being passed as original. Everything from brake pads that are being filled with grass and sawdust, air filter that is being filled with newspaper, but these parts do not even operate as good as the real. The crux of the matter is that counterfeit parts look just like the original and it becomes so hard for even a mechanic to get to know the difference between the two except the quality of the product. If one plans to open up the product and then examine the parts then it would become a very tiring process.

But to avoid this process of counterfeiting there are some ways with which you can understand as to how to avoid it. You might have heard the old saying is it is too good to be true then it certainly is. You can get hold of genuine Toyota parts or used Toyota that are easily available online, but if you find that some companies have offered prices that are way below the normal price then there are high chances that they are fake or they are counterfeit.

Always try to use a trusted supplier where you can order parts from a random company as it is a lot more risky than buying from a reputed Toyota parts or used Toyota dealer. You should also look for companies that have a proven track record of selling authentic and reliable parts. Ensure that you inspect the packaging of the products before buying them as there are many fake suppliers who take a lot of effort to make the parts as authentic looking as they can. But they most often pay very less attention on the packing details. So when you get hold of the vehicle parts check for the poor construction, strange colors or anything that makes you feel that it is odd. So when you are in doubt always contact the manufacturer so if you feel that you have been duped then contact the manufacturer and inform him.
