Plastic Cable ties are handy little items to have around the home, not only can you use them to keep cables neatly clipped together there are many great ways you can use the ties with a bit of imagination.

Some people use Cable Ties to keep the hub caps on their cars in place, others use them to stake rose bushes or climbing plants into place. You could use Cables Ties as a temporary key ring or fix a shower curtain into position using a number of the same size ties.

Thanks to their flexibility there are various ways to use Cable Ties apart from tying cables together. Of course, you have to buy the Cable Ties in the first place and that in itself presents you with a number of options when you shop at you local P clips store.

Sizes of Cable ties

Buying Cable Ties isnâ€™t as straight forward as you might think. For starters there are various sizes of Cable Ties to choose, some are small, others are medium and you can buy large packs of over-sized ties if you like. Large packs of Cable Ties are sold in a variety of quantities ranging from 100 to 600 or more although some online retailers do sell them in smaller quantities as well. Visit a hardware store that sells P clips and you might be able to buy loose Cable Ties which is handy if you only want a few ties without having tons of spares left over.

Depending on what you plan to do with the Cable Ties itâ€™ll be worth considering the size when purchasing the product.

Consider the colour of the Cable ties

Two of the most popular colours of Cable Ties are black and white. However, that doesnâ€™t mean to say you canâ€™t buy more colourful versions of Cable Ties from a supplier of P clips. Plastic Cable Ties come in a variety of colour options with blue, green, yellow and red varieties freely available. Coloured varieties of Cable Ties come in extremely handy if you want to conceal them against a host of brightly coloured wiring.

Mixed packs of coloured Cable Ties are worth considering if you plan on using different sized ties in the future. Youâ€™ll find them in stock at sites that sell a wide variety of Cable Ties with sizes varying from 2.5mm x 100mm products to 4.8mm x 300mm items.
