Certified Pre-Owned Car 101: Knowing the Basics

by Ellsworth Mciltrot

Article published on May 14th 2012 | Business

Are you planning to buy your very first car even if itâ€™s a used one? If you are, then you must feel excited checking out various car dealerships online for prices and inventory. After all, thereâ€™s nothing like having your own set of wheels to drive anytime and anywhere you want to go.

If you live in a city like Edmonton, Alberta, then youâ€™re practically at the right place to purchase a car. Renowned for its strong life-science sector, burgeoning high-tech industry economy and monetary potential, Alberta allows its citizens to afford things like never before. Even if some people canâ€™t afford a brand new car just yet, they can opt for a used car whose quality is considerably better now than its predecessors. In fact, those made in the last 25 years still run efficiently, today.

When you browse through a dealershipâ€™s website, you will notice a logo on some car makes and models that says, certified pre-owned. What exactly is certified pre-owned car? If youâ€™re totally new to this, hereâ€™s a Certified Pre-Owned Car 101 to give you an idea what it is.

Basically, a certified pre-owned (CPO) car is a used car. Unlike any other used car, a CPO car is inspected, tested and repaired before it is put up for sale. Some car manufacturers put their late-model used cars through a fairly strict inspection, toss in a warranty and other incentives then sell them at a premium. Other car dealers inspect and repair them at their own expense hoping to recoup, by also selling at a higher price or including add-ons like their own warranty.

Thus, getting a CPO unit from car dealers Edmonton buyers trust gives you the assurance that the unit was inspected and repaired. Sometimes you can even get a CPO luxury car or SUV which you otherwise canâ€™t afford if it were brand new. While quite different from a new car, you can have peace of mind because itâ€™s like getting a brand new car in terms of engine and body condition.

If a CPO car from any of the auto Edmonton dealers calls your attention, look at it a little more. Check if itâ€™s manufacturer-certified which means it went through a strict inspection process. Ask also for a certification checklist to see if all major parts were properly inspected.

Getting a CPO car from car dealerships Edmonton offers can be a good idea. It might cost a little more than a used car, but getting one from a reputable dealer can give you the assurance youâ€™re getting a good deal. You can read more about CPO cars at Cars.com and Edmunds.com and canada.com.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/certified-pre-owned-car-101-knowing-the-basics.htm - Article Side

Ellsworth Mciltrot - About Author:
For more details, search a car dealers Edmonton, a auto Edmonton and a car dealerships Edmontonin Google.

Article Keywords:
auto edmonton, car dealers edmonton, car dealerships edmonton

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!