How True are esources.co.uk Scam Rumors? by Brad Smith

Article published on January 11th 2012 | Business

Esources is a leading UK wholesale and dropship directory, but even they have to endure esources.co.uk scam rumors doing rounds on the Internet. You may be thinking, why is it so? The reason is pretty simple - since some competitors of esources.co.uk fear its growth, they are trying to malign its image by publishing false esources scams reports. They are afraid of the rising popularity of Esources and therefore they are misleading traders through fake esources reviews and reports.

Esources is a known UK trade directory that is trusted by millions of traders. This directory is a powerhouse of information and resources and can help you set up a successful business. Its huge database of over ten million suppliers helps you reach suitable product sources. Since the suppliers are properly put under relevant categories, you can find the information you need easily and quickly. It gives you access to the best and latest deals so that you can procure your supplies at low rates and make good profits. The website has trade articles section where you can find information and tips on how to write eBay listings, how to communicate with suppliers, how to develop successful business strategies, how to reduce wastage, and so forth. You can also find information about trade shows and fairs, which are excellent platforms for building business relationships and getting an insight into new products that are about to capture the market, through it.

Esources scams rumors are absolutely baseless. They are not backed by proof and hence you should not pay attention to them. At present, esources is a leading directory that provides accurate and useful information to traders. Whether you are a trade buyer or seller, you can immensely gain through it. Its huge member base helps you get instant exposure in retailing industry.

Esources is a legitimate firm. All esources scam rumors are wrong. This directory provides you reliable information at low cost. It has two types of membership plans - basic and premium. With basic membership, you get restricted access to suppliers database and wholesale offers and you get to list your buy requests and receive quotes from suppliers. If you want to enjoy more benefits and get immediate visibility or unrestricted access to suppliers and deals information, you should become its premium member. For trade buyers, the cost of premium membership is £25 per month and for trade sellers, it is £12.5 per month. By subscribing to annual membership, you can get great discounts on membership fee and added privileges like a free e-commerce website, free market research credits, and an eBay handbook.

A good trade directory can do wonders for your business. It can help you in product sourcing and in getting useful information in time so that you can make your business decisions wisely. Nowadays, when most of the wholesale directories are nothing more than scams, it makes sense to register with a reputable directory like esources.co.uk so that your business can prosper and grow manifolds.

Esources is a useful online portal that can immensely help your online retailing business. There is no truth in esources.co.uk scam posts. Do not let go of your chances of accessing the best deals by paying heed to esources scams rumors.
