Are you looking for windscreen repair?

If you have had a chip of any kind on your windscreen then you will know how important it is to get effective windscreen repair quickly. Depending on its size, a windscreen chip or crack can be a distraction, or even worse it could impair your vision. If you leave a chip without getting it fixed then you may find that the problem will escalate and you may need to have a whole new windscreen fitted. However, if you catch the problem quickly you may be able to save yourself quite a lot of money.

What does windscreen repair involve?

Windscreen repair involves cleaning the area and then drying the damaged area and filling it with resin which has similar qualities to glass. Although the windscreen repair wonâ€™t get rid of the damage entirely, it will make the crack or chip much less visible than before and it will be much smoother so your wipers will not be affected. It is important to realise that if you leave a chip then moisture and dirt entering will make the repair much more difficult to achieve so it really is wise to act as early as possible.
