Why Gentlemen Prefer Bespoke Suits? by Anirban

Article published on June 16th 2012 | Clothing

Just like individual personality, everyone's body size and structure also varies. When no two men measure the same, shopping from a readymade garments store with only few standard sizes in suits and shirts does not make much sense. Shopping thus not only makes you purchase less than perfect fitting clothing for you, but also buy from a limited collection of designs, patterns, styles and colors in garments. On the other hand, getting bespoke suits made for your exact size would be hard to duplicate by anyone else.

Have you ever tried getting a custom shirt made from a bespoke tailor? Just try and you would know that it involves so much choice making. Right from fabric of the shirt, pattern on the fabric, color shade of the shirt, to type and dimension of collar, style of cuffs, pockets style – you would have to pick from a host of choices. In order to have a better idea, you can always check out an online store of some experienced bespoke tailors and see for yourself. You would be amazed at how much customization is possible in a single shirt. For example, you may have to decide between as many as four kinds of collars with customizable height and length! You would apparently learn how readymade shirts hardly leave you with any choice, while there are many appealing ways to personalize your shirt with just choosing different aspects in a shirt like collar spread and cuff stitch. Moreover, a tailor made shirt would do away with all your fitting woes like tight around chest or too loose along shoulders etc. The shirt would be made to fit your particular chest size, waist, wrist size etc. and thus, deftly hide any bulges.

A bespoke shirt underneath custom suits would promise comfort along with perfect fitting. Not to forget, you would sport your own style as the suits will be completely customized to meet your personal choices in everything from the number of buttons, style of pockets, vents or no vents, kind of pleats, cuffs stitch, waist band and what not. Further ordering a custom suit, shirt and trouser is extremely convenient thanks to online presence of some of the most experienced bespoke tailors around. Just visit their site, register your choices and place an order for your own personalized formal dress.
