Nowadays, most of the homes have computers and printers are also becoming part of the computer system in a home. Most of the computer users wish to go for branded printer cartridges like canon inkjet cartridges since these cartridges are known all over the world for their efficiency and quality. Every computer user irrespective of whether he is a student or is a businessman are having printers at their place for taking print out of projects and reports that are created on their computer. Not only desktop computers, but laptop computers can also be connected to printers and nowadays this device is offered in lightweight models with multiple features. In addition to meeting the purpose of printing, the current day printers can be effectively used for making copies, scanning and even as fax machines.

When it comes to canon printers, they are offered in two models namely laser and inkjet printers. Of these inkjet model would be highly suitable for small businesses and these printers can print both color and black prints with the help of canon inkjet cartridges. Above all, these printers can be easily connected through USB ports and they are capable of printing 20 papers per minute.

Previously for purchasing of cartridges and for refilling the same, users will have to visit a computer hardware store in person or he will have to call the service provider to his home for refilling of cartridges. However, inkjet cartridges for some of the popular printers belonging to top brands like HP, Lexmark, Canon and Epson are being offered by some of the best online stores these days. When purchasing directly from a store, the users will have to make sure that the cartridge is compatible with the model of the printer; however, when he is purchasing from an online store, he can be assured that he will get the right model if he enters the correct model number of the printer when ordering for the inkjet cartridge online. These websites clearly specify the model number of the cartridge and when the user selects the right model number, the appropriate model will be delivered to him in the same day if he places the order before 12 noon.

Some of these online stores also offer the facility of refilling of old cartridges and therefore users can get their old cartridges refilled from these stores, rather than purchasing the new cartridge, which in turn reduces the huge expense to be made in purchasing a new cartridge.
