TERA Leveling Guide, the Fastest Way to Level Your Character by Paul Guyer

Regardless of the class that you're playing in Tera, you have to level up in order to get more power, skills and abilities. Because TERA normal guide has to inform every details of game including classes, skills, quest, map, and so on, it does not provide you the fastest way to increase level your character. However, TERA guide might not suggest some of the more dangerous methods for you to advance, even if they are the most efficient ones. Unlike TERA Leveling Guide, that only focuses on leveling up, it contains best strategies and methods to pump up quickly level.

According to the TERA leveling guide the more powerful the monster that you defeat, and the more of them that you defeat, the more experience you're going to get. So while one TERA class guide might suggest that you fight hordes of smaller beasts at once to get an experience point juice up (and that is one, viable method), another TERA level guide might suggest that you seek out single, more powerful monsters that will be an effort to defeat, but which will be a bigger, single source of experience points for your character.

Generally speaking the fastest way to move up, no matter which TERA Leveling Guide you're reading, is to fight the biggest, baddest beasts around. If you're smart, and you use your skills, then you can take isolated monsters on your own. For instance an Archer might set up traps and then pelt something with arrows until it stumbles through the trap field. A spell caster might pepper the enemy from a distance, carefully choosing terrain that allows the magic to do the work. Or, something that's commonly done but which may not be found in TERA leveling guide is to travel in packs with other players so that any threat can be taken on as a group.

Each class also requires different strategies to pump up level. For instance, TERA Sorcerer are able to kill hordes of enemies at the same time, but he need some certain configuration to do that. The best strategy for sorcerer is to find some area that have a lot of weak enemies, and kill them several at once, and get experience juice up. On the other hand, TERA Archer is not good at killing multiple targets, but this class is best at slaying a single target. It means that beating a strong monster is the best way to level up your bowman.

This last approach is perhaps the most survivable method, although it will require splitting experience points among the group. It will also require a certain amount of discussion and preparation in order to really fight an enemy or group of enemies that is more powerful than you are. You need to have combinations of traps, character buffing magic, enemy debilitating magic, assault magic, armored defenders and quick flankers that can come in from the outside or circle around behind in order to run your enemies through a gauntlet that they can't hope to survive. The idea is to pile on the punishment so that a weaker opponent, or group of opponents, can succeed through good strategy instead of sheer force of arms. It may sound hard fight monster that more powerful than our characters, but TERA Leveling Guide will help to do it.
