Using Ecommerce Website Specialists Harrogate to Build the Perfect Store by Pete Fairclough

Article published on March 12th 2012 | Computer

Your online store is a shop window for your customers. It's a statement about your brand. And it's a vehicle that drives your web profit up. Ecommerce website specialists Harrogate are there to help design, build and run your ecommerce solution.

Shopping cart integration specialists Harrogate will ensure that your customers' experience of shopping on your site is seamless. Whatever the technology or cart type that drives your secure ecommerce facility, shopping cart integration specialists Harrogate will blend it seamlessly with your site so customers don't feel that they have to leave in order to pay.

Any payment that takes a customer away from your site is potentially a problem. Your ecommerce consultants Harrogate will show you how sites that divert customers elsewhere to make their payment can lose sales, as the customer becomes nervous that he or she is being hijacked by an insecure third party. Your ecommerce web specialists Harrogate, rather than making a visible third party payment platform happen outside your site, will ensure that the payment activity, always feels like it is taking place within the secure confines of your online place of business.

A successful ecommerce website isn't simply about commissioning custom Magento designs and leaving it at that. The functionality of Magento will ensure that payment actions are swift and secure – but how about the way your site looks and feels, the way it catches the personality of your brand? Your ecommerce consultants Harrogate will be able to build a site that looks and feels perfect for your company your product or your services – while retaining the function and safety of a custom Magento design.

The process of designing an ecommerce website starts with an understanding of your brand – and finishes with an understanding of your customer. Your ecommerce web specialists Harrogate will start by defining your brand and your target audience, in close collaboration with you of course, before they begin to develop a site where every page is designed to impart information about goods and products and to streamline your customers towards a buying action. That means making your products easy to find and attractive once found; and making it clear how to store items in a basket, and pay, from every page.

Clarity is key to any successful ecommerce website design. A customer wants to know that his or her basket is full of the items that he or she put in it – and that he or she can buy securely with one or two clicks. You need to think about whether your basket hangs on to unbought items from earlier visits, for example. This can be very annoying, annoying in fact to the point where your customer actually walks away from a full sale.

It's knowledge like this that makes your ecommerce web specialists Harrogate indispensable. Make sure you are selling your products in the right way and watch your profits rise.
