Does ezeego1 cheat its customers? by Dinesh

Article published on May 7th 2012 | Customer Service

When you enter the ezeego1 site you will be very pleased as you will be able to see links that can help you to book everything. You can book air tickets for both domestic and international flights. You can also book train tickets, bus tickets and even taxis to ferry you between airports and hotels. You can also book cruises and holiday packages. The holiday packages are available for both domestic and international destinations. The packages are available throughout the year. The ezeego1 customer care number is also given on the site. The site is attractive and can give the customer the confidence to conduct business with them. The attractiveness and simplicity of the site paints a very pretty picture to the customer. They will be eager to do business with the site as they feel that they would get the best services from the site. If you try and read reviews about the site you might be able to get a more truthful picture.

The ezeego1 complaint list speaks of a different picture. The customers have been trying to contact the firm with many complaints including problems with their offers and deals. The cash back offers are often void there are customers who have been asked to pay the full amount, after promises of refund. The refunds have never arrived and the customer ends up losing their money. They also have offers which promise a delivery of a free ticket. The offer is not fully true and has a lot of fine print involved. When ticket fares are hiked the firm does not give proper information to the customers and often books the tickets with the higher fare. Even on cancellation the money is not returned immediately. The customers have to keep calling the customer care division to get a solution. The amount of time required to get someone to attend to the customer is very long and the whole process becomes very tiring and exhausting for the customers.

Complaint against ezeego1 extends to their hotel bookings too. Customers who have made bookings for 2 or three rooms have found that only one room is available on arrival. The extra amount also is not returned promptly. Many of the promised features also are seen to be missing from the room. This means that the customer would have made the payment expecting proper facilities but would be cheated. In many cases customers have paid for gyms and saunas that were not available. When the customers try to contact the customer care they have to face hours of waiting before they can get a customer care representative online. The online site also offers no help. This means that a customer could get stranded in an unfamiliar place with no tickets and no place to stay. It is always better to read the reviews before you choose an online site to make your bookings. You can also contact the hotel and airlines directly to get your bookings done. They may have more offers than the travel site. This would be even more profitable for the customer.
