If you are passionate about taking pictures, explore that side of yours by going into the wild. Go to a camping trip and capture the beauty of Nature in its raw form. Take a simple SLR camera and explore different techniques of taking photos but be sure about one thing; anything can happen out there so be prepared for everything. First thing to know about camping outdoors is that it can rain anytime, which is why you should have a leather case or a waterproof case for your equipment at all times. A leather case is not only waterproof but also looks good; on the other hand a simple waterproof case is also sufficient as long as it keeps the equipment safe. The simple waterproof case is available is a number of bright colors.

In order to transfer the picture from your camera to your laptop, make sure you are carrying USB gadgets like a multi card reader. These USB gadgets enable you to plug in any kind of memory card. The slots of a multi card reader are often of different sizes which means you wonâ€™t have a problem plugging in any kind of memory card.

Another thing that you must have is a GPS navigator. These days finding a portable GPS navigator is not hard at all. When going camping a GPS navigator is what will guide you back to your camp side after a long day of shooting. You can always slide this portable GPS navigator device in you pocket easily and reach it whenever you need it.

If you want to work on the pictures you have with the help of a tablet and you are using editing software on a tablet it is best to also carry a Bluetooth keyboard. This way you will be able to use the keyboard shortcuts to edit the pictures and the Bluetooth keyboard will also allow you to chat with your friends and sharing your pictures online.

Once you get back from the amazing trip you can always have your work on display at home or in your work place with the help of a wi-fi digital picture frame. It comes in various sizes and colors, so buy the one that suits you. This wi-fi digital picture frame is able to change the pictures on a set interval so it is like a slideshow but you can hang it anywhere or put it on your desk to give an impressive impression.
