Double your Holiday Pleasure at Dublin by Aron Howard

Article published on June 22nd 2012 | Destinations

Steeped in history, literature, arts and culture, Dublin is among the top 30 cities of the world. It is also a modern center for industry, administration, education and economy. Any number of international airlines will only be too happy to fly you here. Once you are here, you will only be spoiled for choice. If you are literary by nature, you will be delighted to experience a UNESCO City of Literature. Maybe you would like to visit the James Joyce Center and take a walking tour to see this majestic city that is such a huge part of the writer's work. You can continue your cultural experience at the National Museum of Ireland and the Irish Museum of Modern Art or catch shows, theater, movies, dance and music at the many theaters like The Gaiety and The Abbey. Your destination is also famed for its vibrant underground arts scene that has seen and encouraged some exemplary drama, music and opera companies. When you buy cheap tickets to Dublin you can have yourself a rich experience at the National Concert Hall, enjoying some amazing performances.

When you have a city where half the population is under 25 years of age, it is bound to have an exciting night life. Choose from pubs and clubs across the city for some fun time with your buddies. If you are in the mood for music, you might catch some wafting tune from street corners or through the doors of a little hotel.

If not for the shopping, at least for the experience, do visit one of the many Farmers' Markets in the city. In fact, Moore Street, one of the city's oldest trading districts is still functional. Flights to Dublin are aplenty so fly your family and close friends in and spend the day roaming through the 700 hectares of Phoenix Park. There are many places in the park to see, including the zoo and the President's residence. In a city steeped in history, there are plenty of monuments of great historical significance. Dublin Castle, Mansion House, Kilmainham Goal, Malahide Castle and St Patrick's Cathedral offer glimpses of time gone by and you can make a trip of it, visiting these places.

Cheap flights to Dublin are especially popular with beer lovers who need to make a trip to the Guinness Storehouse and soak in the atmosphere of one of the world's best brewery. Also on this circuit is the ever so popular Guinness Brewery Hop Store, which traces the history of the company. Or you might want to use cheap airline flights to enjoy all of nature in and around this gorgeous city.

Air France flight deals offer great connectivity and savings, so make sure you check them out. Air France tickets will come in handy when you cannot wait to sample authentic Irish food. Of course, there is always the option of taking Aer Lingus, the Irish nation carrier, for getting dirt cheap and affordable tickets. Do make sure to try the traditional soups and steaks at one of the many excellent restaurants in the city and feel content.
