â€˜All work and no play, makes Jack a dull boyâ€™. This is true even today. The only difference here is tha unlike the previous times, we spend playing the latest games on the gaming consoles. The fact that your console can be used as a juke box or as an aid to watch movies, adds to the fun factor of the entire scenario. The R4i technology is also a major contributor to the entire scenario. There have been many enhancements and additions to the already existing world of gaming cards and R4i technology is here to stay. Let us see what more is there to this incredible technology.

Security features:

The team which has built the cards have taken care that duplicity is not possible. In other words, there is absolutely no chance of any kind of fraudulent practices. The Gold card in the R4i series is a unique card. To elaborate the above mentioned point, the gold card is indeed the best example. The R4 firmware in these cards is built in a way that with the purchase of each card, you will find a key to unlocking the kernel. Therefore, you see you are getting access to the R4i firmware from their authenticated website.

Compatibility:

Another imperative feature of this technology is the fact that it is compatible to both Homebrew and Nintendo gaming systems. Therefore, irrespective of the type of gaming console that you have at your place, you can use these flash cards for enhancements in your game with respect to both audio and video. The biggest benefit is that it is compatible to both. If you have both of them then you do not have to change the card but you can use in an interchangeable fashion. So, you see how a simple and unassuming flash card can work wonders with your gaming consoles and provide you with fun and entertainment.

The point that we are trying to make is that gone are the days of simplicity. It has been taken over by complex algorithms and uniqueness in terms of technologies. Smart and sophisticated R4i technology has ensured that the users of Nintendo gaming console get the best in terms of performance and speed. In short, the technology is far superior to the ones which already existed. In fact, this is a boon to all those lovers of gaming. You can also gift these precious cards to someone who is a gaming fanatic, on the occasion of their birthday or even on Christmas.
