Article published on February 1st 2012 | Hardware

Printers play a vital role in our daily routines, may it be office or home. The quality of a printer ink cartridge is as essential as the quality of your printer in order to get fine prints. A printer user very well understands that it is neither easy to install printer ink cartridges and nor it is a one time process. It is aforesaid that cheap printers or cheap printer ink cartridges cannot give the desired print quality, which is not true, even the branded ink cartridges are sold at discounted rates sometimes. Before you decide to buy an ink cartridge for your printer, it is must that you understand the types of printer ink cartridges available.

Original Ink Cartridges:

These are the ink cartridges with a brand name. Original ink cartridges are factory-made by the same manufacturer as of its printer. These cartridges, that you get packed along with your printer are usually very expensive and are called OEM (Original Equipment Manufacturer). The high pricing of original cartridges is only due to the brand name associated with it that gives the buyer a mental contentment of purchasing a quality product.

Compatible Ink Cartridges:

These cartridges are as the name suggest compatible with your printer but are produced by third parties or companies other than manufacturer of your printer. Compatible ink cartridges are claimed as the cheapest and most congenial solution for your printing needs. These ink cartridges not only perform like other cartridges but also save lot of your money, if you have greater printing requirements.

Re-manufactured Ink Cartridges

These cartridges are the renewed ink cartridges that are amongst inexpensive solutions but are not meant for all printer types. Re-manufactured ink cartridges are basically original cartridges that are used entirely first and then refilled with the battered parts replaced. Number of quality tests are done to ensure that these cartridges match the quality of original cartridges when first sold. With the help of refill kits available in market users can refill these cartridges by themselves, although the quality of print is not guaranteed.

If you are planning to buy a new printer, do research on the types of cartridges it uses. A little research and a right decision can assist you save a lot of money during your printer's life. Taking a correct decision is very crucial other than considering the cost, as an unsafe printer cartridge can harm your printer. To save your time and money you can also prefer buying ink in bulk, if you have an extensive printer usage.
