What is a GoPro HD Surf Hero? by Steve

Article published on February 22nd 2012 | Hardware

If you enjoy surfing then this is probably for many reasons. When you surf this is an activity you can enjoy outdoors and not just outdoors but on the sea. That means you get to enjoy crystal blue waters and azure views panning into the distance. It also means that you get to enjoy great weather â€“ as many of the places with the best surf are in hot countries.

At the same time surfing is also a rather extreme sport ideal for leaping over waves and pulling off moves. If you've ever been in a huge wave tunnel then you'll have seen something that very few people get to sea and you're essentially doing battle with nature, the ocean, Poseidon, itself.

It's all very dramatic, but most people aren't aware of this and that's one of the few problems with surfing â€“ it's not an activity you can easily share. It's very hard to take pictures when surfing for many reasons, among which are the fact that you're in the water, that it all happens very fast, that there are waves in the way and that you are concentrating hard on staying upright and so unable to effectively wield a camera.

So this is where GoPro HD Surf Hero comes in. What is GoPro HD Surf Hero? Well this is a GoPro HD camera designed specifically to get around this problem and to let you record some of the amazing action when surfing.

First of all a GoPro HD Surf Hero will attach to your surf board using a mount. This then means that you don't need to worry about filming â€“ you get a 'surf's eye view' of everything as it happens. Furthermore, it means that you don't need to worry about your cameras getting wet. The GoPro HD Surf Hero is designed specifically for use in the water and so it will be water resistant to a great depth meaning you can punish it and it won't break. The casing is resilient in other ways too, meaning that if you should drop it or smash it with the board, it won't shatter and you can still use it. They're designed to be found easily if they come off the board meanwhile, but any Go Pro HD camera will be so well attached to the board that you won't need to worry about this anyway.

On top of all this though, a GoPro HD Surf Hero has many other benefits that make it just a great camera. It can both take photos and record footage and that then means that you can have that amazing action shot for your YouTube video, but also be able to show people the action on film. And because it's HD you can capture all of this in great detail.

Then there's the fact that a GoPro HD Surf Hero is able to be used for other sports and activities. The clamp can also attach to a helmet and the GoPro HD camera can of course be carried lose too. So for any heavy duty action this is ideal.
