Article published on May 16th 2012 | Home

Are you looking to add an extra bedroom for your teenage son? Do you want to transform your kitchen into a modular one with an island in between like that of your neighbors? Always wanted a fancy minibar in your kitchen? Need a bigger master bedroom? All your fantasies can now come true with awesome home renovations. The best part about these additions is that you can get it all with heavy discounts.

Color Choice

Rule number one is that you shouldnâ€™t get over ambitious on painting your home unless you have a total financial back up. Remember that fads fade yet a simple elegant look remains ingrained in minds of most people. Accent your home with pastel shades and subtle patterns in the living and dining area. Use two, maximum three colors in additional rooms. Stick to soft, neutral colors in bedrooms as these instill a soothing effect on those staying there. Deeper hues are generally less appreciated so if you want a darker shade, confine it to a smaller area. This way you can redo the area without shelling a bomb if you find it unattractive by any chance.

Great Tips on Home Renovations

Spend money at the right places. Ensure that your kitchen and bathroom renovations are completed before moving onto the living room and master bedroom. The higher the ceiling the better the resale value so make sure you paint them in lighter colors to increase their â€˜high appearanceâ€™. Open, well ventilated living space are better than isolated, boxy rooms. If possible, design your floor plan in such a way that you can see the other end easily. Carefully evaluate on how the proposal fits in with future needs and current lifestyle. Itâ€™s a good idea to troll the internet and home magazines for ideas on fittings as well appliances. Make a file of the designs and fittings that you like in so that when it comes to the point of home renovations, you can easily incorporate these ideas.
