Improve hygiene at home using a Hand Sanitizer by James Blee

Article published on August 23rd 2012 | Home

Go to visit a friend or a relative in hospital and youâ€™ll spot a Hand Sanitizer at the entrance to each ward. The Hand Sanitizer has one specific purpose, people entering or leaving the ward should use the Waterless Hand Sanitizer to help prevent the spread of germs.

A Hand Sanitizer is a simple to use device that is highly effective against germs and bacteria. It has an alcohol base that blitzes germs and they donâ€™t have a chance when a Hand Sanitizer has been used. You can understand why a hospital would want to use a Hand Sanitizer but this practical item is also ideal for a family home that takes its health and hygiene seriously.

Donâ€™t worry I use soap and water

Okay at this moment you might be thinking I donâ€™t need a Hand Sanitizer because I use soap and water so whatâ€™s the point in buying a Waterless Hand Sanitizer? Guess what though. Not all water is pure and you never know if you are washing your hands in germ-infested water or not.

This is never a concern when a Hand Sanitizer is used. You donâ€™t have to use water with a Hand Sanitizer and it gets rid of germs straight away. Plus when you use a Hand Sanitizer you donâ€™t have to dry your hands on germ-ridden towels because once you rub the alcohol based liquid into your hands it dries straight away leaving no sticky residue.

Place a Wireless Hand Sanitizer in different areas of your home

A Hand Sanitizer is an affordable product that promotes health and hygiene so why not place various units around your home?

You could put the Hand Sanitizer in the family bathroom and have one in all of the en-suites along with the downstairs cloakroom of the property. Plus you could place a Hand Sanitizer in the kitchen, have one in the garage and keep your hands clean and sanitized throughout the day.

If the thought of spreading germs weighs heavily on your mind a Hand Sanitizer could be the ideal solution, it helps you fight illness and disease with a simple to use device.
