Article published on March 16th 2012 | Home Improvement

Flooring is an integral part of any home construction or remodeling project. People love decorative flooring styles for more attraction as well as convenience. Different people like different flooring styles and material as per their living conditions, weather conditions, and living standards. This is the reason people choose different types of flooring from vinyl to cork and laminate. Some of the different types of flooring options are:

Vinyl Flooring

Vinyl flooring is the most suitable flooring option for the people nowadays. It is tough, scratch resistant and completely waterproof, which makes it durable and reliable in nature and different types of residential and commercial flooring applications. It looks highly homogeneous on the floor and its sheen never fades. Its attractive appearance has been inspiring designers throughout the world.

It is also perfect for different types of applications and requires very low maintenance. It is anti microbial, and stain proof as well as anti slip. It is often recommended by the architects and engineers because it is eco friendly. One can find vinyl flooring in commercial sectors because it is highly durable and tough in nature.

Cork Flooring

Cork flooring is supposed to be he most popular choice among architects and interior decorators. It is the most beautiful, elegant, stunning and comfortable floor material options available for the modern people. It can be easily used in new houses and kitchens for exceptional comfort and beauty.

Cork flooring is environmental friendly and is considered as a renewable and sustainable natural resource. Most of the people neglect cork flooring because of its expensive nature, however its beauty is unmatched and can rejuvenate the complete environment and attract attention! It is worth the cost when used in smaller spaces like kitchen or dining room, etc.

Its softness makes it the better choice for the kitchen renovation or remodeling projects and it is fire-resistant and sound proof also.

Laminate flooring

It is also known as a floating wood tile in most of the places. Laminate flooring is selected due to its great features and characteristics. It is high UV resistant and can be installed anywhere easily with little efforts. It looks and brilliant and excellent at different places like dining room, kitchen, living room, hall, etc. It also gives you great flexibility and accentuates the place with its colorful shine. It is used as it dramatically transforms the overall look and feel of a room.

Now, plates for commercial projects, floor. The installation of the new album, clearly the benefits of installing hardwood floors. There is a great resistance, and there is a certain, often less expensive. There are good reasons for the shops, which is completely incompatible with the liquid on the floor, love, hard. This is completely in compatible with stains to give it away, removes scratches, humidity and problems. Sustainability and efficiency are the perfect choice and valuable products and business models, experts from the floor.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/flooring-options-for-homes.htm - Article Side

Renocon - About Author:
The author is associated with Renocon Design Inc. Renocon is a one stop shop. They work with industry leaders to provide everything that include in any renovation project requires. Their renovation portfolio includes a flooring, full and partial kitchen and a bathroom renovations, painting, and construction to name a few.

Article Keywords:
Flooring,Vancouver renovation,Laminate flooring,Hardwood floor.

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!