Article Side

How to clean your awnings by George Peterson

Article published on January 9th 2012 | Home Improvement

When you buy Awnings for your windows and decks, you should know how to maintain them. In addition, it is important to buy good quality materials, which lasts for a long time. Preventing rain and sunlight is not the only task of these awnings. They add beauty to your windows, storefront etc. Therefore, always remember to buy beautiful awnings for your home. Moreover, if you clean it properly, it looks new for many years. If you do not want to spend money for replacing awnings every year, know some simple tips by which you can keep it in good condition.

Inspect awnings before cleaning

Before cleaning your awnings, examine it in detail. This helps you to detect minor defects. You may check whether you want to detach awning from windows for repairing or you can fix it directly. If you find major defects on awning, you can replace it. When you check both interior and exterior, you can identify dirt and other particles on it.

Choose appropriate cleaning solution

In order to clean your awnings, prepare right solution for that. Different awnings require various types of solutions. If you do not use correct solution, it damages the material. When you prepare the solution, follow the prescriptions mentioned. Concentration of solution needed for different stains, always vary. For mild wash, dilute the solution and then apply on awnings.

Remove mold and mildew

Apply the prepared disinfectant solution on the surface of awning to remove mildew from it. After applying that solution, you may wash surface with mild hot water. When you complete washing the surface, apply some lemon juice and salt to rinse its exterior. Thus, you can completely sterilize the surface of awning. Sterilizing the surface is necessary because, it keeps surface hygienic.

Dry surface of awnings

When you finish your cleaning process, you may let surface of awning to dry. You can wipe the surface using dry cotton to remove water particles or you can let sunlight to fall on its surface. When direct sunlight fall on its exterior, it dries naturally. It is not so necessary to dry the surface manually using cotton, you may do it if need a faster result.

Post cleaning care of awnings

If you notice any stain on the awning surface, you can clean it with hot water and detergent. You may use scrubber to remove thick stains. After applying wet detergent on that place, scrub that portion alone to remove stains. Wash the surface with hot water and inspect it again. If stain retains on the surface, you can try strong detergents. After applying such detergents, keep surface intact for the detergent to react. Then scrub strongly and clean that place using water. Thus, you can remove any stains and mildews.

If you follow these simple steps, you can keep your awnings in a beautiful condition at all times. You can prevent the growth of mildew on its surface if you maintain it regularly. Prepare a good drainage to remove water from awning when it rains.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/how-to-clean-your-awnings.htm - Article Side

George Peterson - About Author:
Now you know how to properly maintain your awnings. In order to avoid future problems with them it is highly recommended to make sure they are made from reliable material. From my experience, I highly recommend the Velux awnings (interesting to know is that the Polish term is a Markizy VELUX). YOu can read more related tips if you a click here

Article Keywords:
awnings, how to clean awnings, choose suitable awnings, buy awnings

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!