Gone are the days when kitchen was considered as simple, boring looking place. People use white or pink color on walls, some stainless steel utensils and some plain old wooden cabinets.

Kitchens today, have a modern outlook just like the woman of today. She lives a quality lifestyle and prefers her surroundings to be the same. Kitchen is the place where a woman spends a lot of time. It should definitely be designed with taste, class and style so that the lady feels good as she prepares your meals (they might taste better if she loves the kitchen interiors!).

The concept of modular kitchen has created a buzz in the market with oodles of options for each and every part of the kitchen. The cabinets, floors, walls, chimneys, accessories, utensils etc, everything should be according to the common theme of design.

The best thing about modular kitchen is that it not only makes your kitchen look elegant, but also makes it organized and cleans. The cabinets, floors, walls, chimneys, accessories, utensils etc, everything should be according to the common theme of design. Let us take a look at how many different types of cabinets are available for you to choose from:

â€¢Maple Wood :

You can choose maple wood, which is one of the most popular materials for making modular kitchen cabinets these days. These are amazingly durable and versatile. You can paint them, adorn them with ply sheets, polish them or devise any other way of decorating them if you want!! Their uniform grain gives perfect finish for any kind of kitchen.

â€¢Metal cabinets :

Metal cabinets are the latest buzz in the kitchen cabinet market. These have a shiny contemporary look available in trendy colors. Metals used can vary from stainless steel to copper. You can choose from the variety of options and give an evergreen look to your kitchen.

Let us throw some light on how interiors are designed in a modular kitchen. The most remarkable aspect of modular kitchen is that the cabinets have frames for storage of different types of utensils inside them. Stainless steel is popular for these frames. Plastic is also used for this purpose, as it is available at a cost lesser than stainless steel. These frames have slots for the storage of different types of utensils, bigger slots for bigger utensils, smaller slots for smaller utensils such as spoons, forks etc. These frames are fitted inside the cabinets so that your kitchen always remains well organized and neat.
