Hard wood flooring is an attractive and durable material that can look very beautiful in your room. If you are thinking of renovating your room or constructing a new room hard wood floor is the best choice. Hard wood floors are expensive but they are long lasting. Hard wood floors come in to many colors. It is important to choose a right color for your room. You can choose the color by considering your roomâ€™s dÃ©cor color. Before choosing the colors must keep the following points in mind it will help you a lot.First of all you must know about the type of effect you want from your floor. Hardwood flooring gives a warm feel to the bedroom. If your room is small its better to choose the light colors because in darken colors your room will look small. The lighter colors of hardwood floors influence the bedroomâ€™s dÃ©cor much differently than darken colors.

If you are renovating your bedroom, it is important to think about the existing elements in bedroom and also analyze that how your hardwood floor will interact with entire design. Before choosing the color for your bedroom it is essential to look at the elements of your bedroom such as paint color, furniture, window treatments, bedding molding and baseboards. Before choosing the color of your bedroom it is recommended to visit your hardwood flooring dealer and take wood flooring samples in different colors. Take the samples back to your bedroom and check how they look in your bedroom. The best way to check the sample is to hold them up to the furniture, bedding and paint and how the colors will interrelate. Check the samples several times in different lightning to choose a right color for your bedroom.If you like some samples also compare these samples to the rest of the flooring in your home especially with adjacent hallways and bathrooms. After choosing your favorite color talk to the salespeople of hardwood flooring store that it is pre finished or not. The pre finished hardwood floor colors are pre set but others are finished after installation. During installation if any stain it will be adjusted.

The proper maintenance of your hardwood floors not only gives the beauty to your room but also it will prolong the life time of your hardwood floors. Maintaining hard wood floors are not very difficult task. You can maintain them easily but extra care is needed. Donâ€™t drag your heavy furniture directly on the hardwood floor. It will cause scratches. Attached robber pads or plastic shoes to your furniture legs so that your hard wood floor can not be damaged.If you want that your hard wood floor will look always new than its better to remove your shoes while entering the room. The other precaution is that donâ€™t drop food or liquids on your floor. It will cause damage to color of your hardwood floor. Choosing a right color and proper maintenance of hardwood floor can enhance the look of your bedroom.
