Home owners at large do not want to take the trouble of maintaining meters and meters of fabric in the form of curtains. The present times call for things that are not only pleasant to the vision but are also convenient when it comes to space factor and up-keep. Window shades are a perfect solution for all those who are seeking classy interiors with minimum effort aimed towards maintenance. The fact that so many different types of shades are available in the market today, makes it easy for any home owner with any type of house (whether traditional or contemporary) to find one that is just right for them and their family. There are the bamboo shades, there are the classic roman shades . . . and speaking of the more popular ones, the top down bottom up shades and solar shades happen to be ruling.

The function of the top do bottom up shades is exactly what their names stand for. Basically these shades are unique because they can be opened from both ways, which are the top and the bottom as well. This is very unlike the other shades which can only be rolled up or pulled up while the bottom remains uncovered. These shades offer a good window solution to most households, solely for the reason that they do much more than maintaining privacy of the rooms.

If you wish to allow light and fresh air into the room while ensuring that your privacy is well guarded from the eyes of prying neighbors, you can push the top down while the bottom is covered. If you wish to guard against the sun high in the sky at noon, pull up the shade to maintain the inflow of light and air while blocking the harsh rays at the same time. Top down bottom up shades is a multipurpose shade with a brilliant design structure. The fact that it is available in many different patterns, shapes and palettes makes it easier for homeowners to make it a part of their decor.

Besides this, the solar shades are also highly in demand. People from all over wish to incorporate some form of protection against harsh sun rays along with the harmful UVA and UVB rays that can easily filter through ordinary shades. Solar shades are made with the help of materials that ensure maintenance of interior dÃ©cor and protection against the harmful and otherwise uncomfortable rays of the sun. Solar shades contribute to energy conservation at large. Solar window roller shades are very popular both from home owners and owners of commercial areas like hotels, restaurants etc. People at large can also avail motorized solar shades which can be considered grand contribution of technology to the usual window solutions. These shades are not only energy efficient; they possess immense aesthetic value as well.

The price factor of these shades will differ according to the type of design chosen, the size as well as the quality. For instance, motorized solar shades will anytime, cost more than the usual shades.
