It is that time of year when many beauty queens are sorting through the cosmetic bags and going through the change of the seasons. One product that many people add to their regime this time of year is a self tanning product line. Gone are the days where you have to spend hours in the sun increasing your wrinkle count and risk to skin cancer, today you can use self tanners to achieve that same sexy glow that all the stars are using. But it seems that every cosmetic line has a new product offering you the same great benefits. How do you choose which one to go with? Choose the sunless tanning company that has a dedicated line of products and the team of professionals to back it up. Companies like Sun Labs have advantages over other cosmetic giants because those giants cater to every product, and can not provide the same exclusivity. Here we talk about what to look for when choosing your self tanning product this summer.

Ease of use is the number one issue mentioned in any review of any self tanning product. When you are choosing a self tanner, you need to keep ease of use in mind, and this is something you are familiar with if you have already tried self tanning products. Not every tanning product is created equal, and some companies will offer different methods of application. Every method of application has its benefits, and some will work better than others. You need to find the one that works best for you, and so you want a self tanning line that offers an abundance of options in this area. Some companies only offer one or two kinds, and this is extremely limiting to you if you aren't sure what will be your best option. Look for self tanning companies like Sun Labs that offer you everything from airbrushed tans to moisturizing self tanning creams that you apply yourself.

You also want your self tanning products to come from experts in the field of skin care. Your skin care regime is important to you, that is why you are choosing not to spend the time in the sun to damage all of your hard work. So you want a company that supports your mission towards beautiful skin, and this means a company that does nothing but skin care. Beauty giants are great companies to work with and offer a huge range of product suggestions, but why buy your self tanner from a company that offers everything from self tanners to fake eyelashes when you can get a product from a company that knows nothing BUT skin care. With that in mind you know that every bottle of product you have purchased has had a team of specialized skin care experts formulating the perfect product for you. Products from beauty lines are great products, but they may not be able to give you the specialized attention that your skin needs.

You spend a lot of money and attention on your skin care because it matters to you, as it should. When you are adding products like sunless tanning products to your skin, do the research and choose dedicated skin care companies like Sun Labs that offer a huge range of product suggestions for every one of your tanning needs.
