Plenty of Time by Edan K Alvo

Article published on February 4th 2012 | Jewelry

In the upcoming film In Time, we are introduced to a future world where people no longer pay for things with money, but with time. It gives a whole new meaning to the phrase â€œtime is moneyâ€•. Hopefully we will not see such a world come into existence. Besides, we already have the perfect place to keep our time, or at least our timepieces: a classy, elegant watch box.

A watch box is really the perfect place to keep your watches. Once youâ€™ve used a watch box it will be hard to imagine any alternative means of storage. Each watch is given its own compartment with a soft but firm pillow around which the watch can be wrapped. This helps maintain both the mechanical precision of the watch and the strength and integrity of the wristband.

Many types of watch box are also designed for display of your watch collection, possessing clear but durable glass tops. You can show off your watches like museum pieces when theyâ€™re not being worn.

Whether youâ€™ve got a lot of time on your hands or only a modest amount (whether or not youâ€™ve go several watches or only a few) there is a wide selection of watch box sizes to choose from. Some hold about five or ten while some hold a couple of dozen. Regardless of how many a box holds, it will give watch star treatment while itâ€™s in the boxâ€™s custody.No matter where you go, of course, tim still passes and needs to be kept track of. A travel watch box come in handy here so you can continue to keep to your schedule wherever you go (even if your only planned activity is â€œrelaxingâ€•).

In the world of In Time, one is required to deposit and pay for things with units of time. Not an easy decision to make, but placing your watches in a watch box is a much easier concept to get behind than that. Your watches would thank you for it if they could and youâ€™ll be repaid by your watches lasting and being in working order longer. Not only can you keep your time pieces in a watch box, but a watch box will save you time in one key respect. You will never spend another second wondering what to do with your watches, or, once they are safely in the watch boxes, another moment worrying if they are being stored correctly.
