Why You Need a Certified Mortgage Securitization Audit by Admin003

Article published on March 9th 2012 | Loans

Pro Per litigants and Attorneys fighting foreclosure in civil or bankruptcy court need a Certified Mortgage Securitization Auditor to investigate the referenced foreclosure documentation and investigate the legitimacy of claims being made by the party seeking to foreclose.

We have seen too often how a wrongful foreclosure lawsuit can have disastrous results to the borrower, because they failed to properly prepare, and present the critical evidence to support their lawsuit. A Pro Per litigant or their attorney should order a Mortgage Securitization Audit from an outside third party certified expert to answer four simple questions.

1. Has the party seeking to foreclose demonstrated a true beneficial ownership?
2. Have claims of financial interest been fully disclosed and represented truthfully?
3. Have all beneficial owners and parties been voluntarily disclosed?
4. Have all material facts, documents and agreements that govern the transaction been disclosed?

If the answer to any of the above questions is no, The Homeowners Revolt.Com will have a Certified Mortgage Securitization Auditor perform the research and investigation to see if the foreclosing party has any legal standing to pursue foreclosure.

Our Certified Mortgage Securitization Auditors will report their findings based on facts and documentation, which should be fully admissible, because they pertain to material issues, and the documentation upon which they rely, is a source considered to be extremely credible, reliable, and easily authenticated through public information. In addition, our experts provide you with a legal affidavit of the facts, and stand ready to back up their findings in a court of law.

A Certified Mortgage Securitization Auditor oversees the audits, discovery, investigation and reporting. Our reports are more than just informative. We provide a declaration of facts attesting to our findings. Unlike other companies providing Securitization Audits, we provide SEC specific information on the trust and confirm those findings using Bloomberg data to validate the information. Bloomberg is the industry leader for sourcing Securitization information, and you must have a specialized Bloomberg terminal, in order to access the information.

We service all 50 states both judicial and non-judicial, Civil and Bankruptcy, Pre-Foreclosure and Foreclosure. We provide data other companies just won't bother to include, either because they choose not to, or they simply don't have access.

When you decide on going into battle to present the facts, make sure you arm yourself with the Weapons Of Mass Destruction you'll need in order to fight your mortgage WAR and WIN! Only by having undisputed factual evidence and information, can you expect to get the results you desire.

An audit that traces the Note and the Deed, verifies Title, pinpoints the EXACT Trust, pulls SEC specific information, and uses Bloomberg Professional, is the Weapon Of Mass Destruction you need!
