Data Recovery is the process by which data is recovered from your data storage device. there may be times where you are unable to access your storage device due to a virus or actual damage to the storage device itself. We specialise in recovering data from your storage device using some of the latest software™s and hardware tools to ensure that we safely save your data from being lost forever. No matter how extensive the damage caused we are confident that we will be able to recover the data and return it to you. We also specialise in RAID Recovery. So if your server has been damaged or suffered a major virus attack which has deleted the data from your storage devices there is still a very high chance that the date is still recoverable even though you might not be able to see it. Our team of data recovery specialists are very highly trained and have years of experience and can almost deal with all kinds of servers and office operating systems to ensure that the damage is controlled and your data is recovered safely and promptly. We are also able to save your actual device as well in certain circumstances. We are able to offer a Hard Drive Repair service, whereby we will be able to backup your data and then reformat your hard drive to ensure that it is cleared of all bugs and viruses. Once this is done we will put all your data back onto your hard drive and return it you for to be able fully use it again to its full capacity.

Data Recovery is offered by many companies in the UK but a few things to look out for are that you firstly need to ensure that they have the ability to recover your data promptly and send it back to you to ensure that you are not stranded without your data. The best way to ensure this is to call the company up in advance and verbally find out if they are able to resolve the issues that you describe to them over the phone. You must be extra careful if you are looking to have RAID Recovery done on your work related storage device. This will ensure that you have found someone who is able to offer a prompt service and is local to you so if they need to come your premises they are not too far from you ensure that all recovery is done promptly. Hard Drive Repair is not offered by many companies so you must ensure that you get a detailed answer from them to ensure that they capable of repairing your hard drive.

We offer Data Recovery, RAID Recovery and Hard Drive Repair are very competitive prices and are confident that we are one of the most efficient companies to offer this service to ensure that we meet your expectations.
