There can be nothing more invigorating than reading books. They leave you rich with experiences that you cannot hope to gain all by yourself. In fact reading is the key to becoming a good writer. They will give you all the experience and more of others too. Without reading you can never become a good writer and that in itself is a good reason why you should become a prolific reader. If you are not a good reader make the beginning today. The first few pages may be difficult, but once you get engrossed, nothing can stop you from putting down the book. Don't procrastinate; just begin with anything that you can lay your hands on.

Perhaps the only genre in books where you can write fiction based on real, scientific facts. Refreshingly new concepts, old factualisms given a new twist, thrilling, romantic, tragic and at the same time fantasizing- Science fiction is an all inclusive package that makes you want to read more. Evil scientists steadfast on dominating the world, mutant aliens and talking animals, science fiction offers plenty of information, full of adventure-it's where your imagination goes crazy and boundless. Plenty of authors like HG Wells' The War of the Worlds, The Star Wars saga are epic masterminds worth a read for science fic devotees and beginners alike.

A dashing hero with handsome looks and arrogant personality, a fair maiden beautiful and a will of steel, a gorgeous man with an impressive profession, an ordinary woman who down plays her charms, a war hero with a cynical heart, a professional woman with a secret past, mix any of these characters and you can read a happily ever after story! Romance genres are welcome distractions to anyone who wishes to take a break from the cycle of life! Though they make a reader feel very light once the story ends, readers should also know the difference between life and fantasy. These books don't go beyond the happily ever after part!

If we have to know more about a person, who is famous in the areas that you are interest in, then you have to approach a library to get his autobiography. Autobiography is the story of a person's life written by or told by that person. It is good to read autobiographies of eminent persons to know more about the person and his contribution in the particular field. An autobiography describes a person, place and his experience. It will organize events in a chronological order. This will help people to read autobiographies in a better manner.
