Menâ€™s Spring Fashion Trends by Dylan Jones

Article published on April 20th 2012 | Shopping

If youâ€™re interested in keeping up with current trends, you will need to shop for a few key pieces each season. Most of us canâ€™t afford to buy entirely new wardrobes each time a new trend hits so itâ€™s important to know what items of clothing you really want and the ones that will suit you best.

A light, cotton-blend blazer is a must-have for any sophisticated manâ€™s wardrobe. The blazer is an uncomplicated way to dress up and fits the bill for a variety of casual occasions. When shopping the Jermyn street shops, keep your eye out for Navy blazers â€“ the best color for spring.

When browsing Jermyn st shirts, have a store salesman help you find the right fit. The key to a good-looking short-sleeved shirt is in the fit, and with many brands making slim-fit options available this spring, you should have plenty to choose from. If you pick a mild or subtle tone for the shirt, choose a bold colour for the pants. Yes, men can wear more than just black or brown pants â€“ as long as the colour is toned down on top. Pair your new mint chinos with classic colours like gray or navy â€“ nothing too flashy â€“ and youâ€™ll easily pull off this hot new trend.

One of the most popular trends in menâ€™s fashion this year is relaxed tailoring. No element of the relaxed tailoring style is more dominant than the seamless shoulder. As the name suggests, the seamless shoulder lacks a stitch line at the point where the shoulder rolls to become the arm. This style can really make a statement if you wear it well. As a note in its favour, itâ€™s the easiest element of the 2012 relaxed tailoring look to get right. As youâ€™re shopping Jermyn street shops, ask around to find examples of this trend.

While the seamless shoulder is one of the hallmarks of the relaxed menâ€™s tailoring trend, the deep shoulder seam/dropped shoulder works equally as well. Loose cut trousers/pants are also on trend this season but beware; this style is the hardest to pull off. Youâ€™re looking for relaxed, oversized pants but they must be tailored. While the loose look may be casual, you donâ€™t want to look sloppy. Tailoring is the key to the whole style.

While browsing Jermyn st shops, look for a few fitted shirts, a light blazer, and a pair of colourful pants. Youâ€™ll be right on trend this spring.
