Use Photos to Create the Perfect Gift by Cristian Stan

Article published on January 31st 2012 | Shopping

Photo albums have been around for centuries and they are great for gifts as well. They can be personalized from the inside and out, and many places offer engraving as an option to give it a more meaningful touch to it.

Cushions, Cubes and Blankets

Using photos to create truly unique gifts has become a growing trend for Christmas as well as birthday holidays. Bedding or blankets re great for everyone to enjoy in the home and you can even create photo cubes to capture a favorite memory. This can be a past time or when your child was born and these make great home dÃ©cor items.

Canvas Prints

You can also opt to get a photo or a collage of photos painted onto a canvas. It can be uses as a wall image or hanging. These are great for family portraits or of siblings or of grandchildren. These make ideal gifts for grandparents. You can create a few photos to place on the canvas r a large one. You can even opt to have a mosaic look to it.

While you also can have photos printed on to a canvas, you can also opt to take a few pictures and create a montage or a collage. This allows you to capture a few of your favorite memories depending on who the gift is for. This is a great option as you can showcase a number of photos that you are proud of. This is a great idea of you have wedding pictures that you want to cherish and add to your bedroom wall decor. Canvas allows your pictures to have life to them and can also give them a deeper look while being on photographic paper.

Calendars or Paper Weights

If you work in the office, you can opt for choosing your favorite pictures to put in a calendar. That way you are always reminded of something with each coming month. You can create a custom design for the front page of the calendar as well. This is a great gift to give as well and you can choose a photo block or paper weight. If you work in an office, consider getting your picture at the bottom and giving it to your spouse.

This can show them you are always with them and thinking of them. Photo blocks are printed directly onto the resin block and there is no frame or glass covering it. Some come on stands that have lights that shine through to give it a more elegant look.
