Why Gentlemen Prefer Bespoke Clothes? by Anirban

Article published on January 11th 2012 | Shopping

Itâ€™s said that clothes make a man. Considering todayâ€™s conditions, this may well be true. Todayâ€™ moving world demands razor sharp men who are born to lead. These men must look, feel and act smart. Clothes have a wonderful way of reducing the gap between men. Thatâ€™s provided these clothes have been tailored right. Thereâ€™s no place in a gentlemanâ€™s wardrobe for ready to wear clothes that have been made by machines for anonymous men known only by their waist size if itâ€™s a pair of slacks and collar size if itâ€™s a shirt. Bespoke suits on the other hand fit a man perfectly so that they stay fitted when the man is bending or crouching. Such bespoke clothes flow with the wearer. They appear as if they have been made just for him and none else. This is the main reason why a man must wear bespoke clothes.

The other reason why only bespoke clothes will do is that when you order bespoke shirts you firstly select the kind of fabric you want. There are more than 35 shades available to select from such as pine forest and pure rain, lime green and confetti. There are blends and single-ply cotton or two-ply superfine, executive and wrinkle-free 100% cotton. There are 15 different collar styles and 4 styles for pockets as well as 5 styles for cuff to select from. Then there are body front styles and body back styles as well as monograms. Your shirts are bound to fit you perfectly because the bespoke tailors know the way your shoulders droop and they also know that you want extra pockets or a longer shirt tail.

Bespoke tailoring is all about precision. Thereâ€™s no room in a bespoke tailorâ€™s lexicon for guess wo or approximations. The master tailor goes by his guidelines that he has acquired from decades of tradition. His favorite word is fit. The clothes must fit perfectly. The other word that the craftsman is fond of is selection. The customer must be able to select every aspect of the clothes that he is ordering. The style comes next and both contemporary and traditional forms of styling will be on offer. This is why when you order bespoke clothes you know you are getting your moneyâ€™s worth.
