Article published on July 5th 2012 | Software

There is long list of good institutions for ERP (SAP) course because there has been a rise in the number of companies who seek to implement an ERP for doing business in better way. With the rise in demand for ERP, demand for ERP professionals has also gone up substantially which has prompted big names of ERP industry to open institutions or work in partnership with already existing institutes to provide training and knowledge about ERP. In India almost every big city has more than one reputed institute for ERP courses and if one wants to make a complete list of reputed institutions for ERP (SAP) course it can become pretty long. Almost every institute offers fulltime/part-time ERP courses and most of them also impart online courses and training.

One should choose the course and the institute according to his qualification, objective and interest rather than convenience. Part time and online courses are mostly suggested and are intended to provide some knowledge of ERP to the people who actually use this application at their work place to do their daily routine work rather than to those who actually want to become professionals and want to play a role in implementation and successful maintenance of ERP. To become a thorough ERP professional one should choose any institute from list of reputed institutes for ERP (SAP) course and follow a suitable course and training program to get deep and complete knowledge of the software and its functionality.

Almost all the major cities of India like Delhi, Mumbai, Pune, Bangalore, Gurgaon etc have list of good institutions for ERP (SAP) course. Some of the popular, reputed and renowned institutions are - Delphi Computech Private Limited, they have two branches one in Nashik and other in Pune, Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited in Mumbai, Enem Technologies Private Limited in Jaipur, Aldea Infotech Private Limited in Chennai and Madurai, JKT Consulting in Gurgaon, Bhari Information Systems Private Limited in Mumbai and Sapphire Consulting Limited in Bangalore.

This is not all, there are many other institutes which can be included in the list of good institutions for ERP (SAP) course, like in Delhi-NCR region Webcam Technologies, Visnova, Siemens, Genpact and SAP-AG also provide ERP courses. SAP Tech-ED is a growing center in Bangalore which provides courses and training programs for SAP ERP. Amongst other institutes which need to be mentioned in the list of reputed institutions for ERP (SAP) course are IIHT-Bangalore and SAP Labs, these are also reputed names in the ERP training industry.

The fees and duration of courses vary depending on the study material, scope of the course and also institute. The institutes which carry good reputation may charge little bit extra as fees but it is not worthless to pay extra money if one can as companies do look to hire people who have done course from reputed institute. One should do an exhaustive research about reputation of the institutes and see the placements of the old students to be sure about the quality of teaching and training. A certification and sound knowledge of ERP can be a great career booster for any IT professional.
