Windows Live the collective communication and collaboration tool from Microsoft hardly requires any introduction. The product induced with basic web-based features like mail and instant messenger was revamped subsequently, and a new name was coined as Windows Live Essentials. Expansion is associated with responsibility, and there is nothing wrong with the Windows Live services. There can be different issues related to the account; it may be blocked or compromised, sign-up and e-mail send/receive issues are too linked, spamming and security problems are never exception. SkyDrive is a Microsoft Server, so there is not much issues related to the availability and accessibility of data. However, trivial issues can happen when your Internet connection is not Ok, or security settings are not up to the standard. Problems could be related to the uploading of files or permission settings regarding sharing of files and folders especially when you are new. Other components can also suffer through errors, or at times you may find difficulties while using their advanced features.

Windows Live Support apprehends all. Wherever you are the service shrouds like a cloud over the Internet. You have to just call on the phone number of the portal and you will find a technician coming for rescue. Experts can guide you over the phone or can take the remote access of your system to perform the troubleshooting tasks to fix Windows Live problems. You may ask technicians to configure the Windows Live Essential services with your Windows Phone 7, iPhone, Android, BlackBerry or other types of phones as per your choice. Also donâ€™t give a miss to Windows Live Family Safety features which is available with no cost. You can amend the settings of the suite to protect your children from obscene or unwanted websites. You can also monitor and restrict their contacts through Windows Live Messenger, Windows Live Hotmail, and Windows Live Spaces. In addition, you can organize their time for web-access and also set your preference so that they donâ€™t go blindly wasting their time over the Internet and make intuitive use of the investment.

Intellectually following e-mail safety norms and procuring the right stuffs from the Windows Live Essentials can be of great advantage, and will give edge to your communication and sharing skills. You should make use of updated Windows, browser and the Internet security software and never ignore issues or symptoms that are correlated with system security.
