Article published on June 16th 2012 | Software

Essays are written for many purposes such as, to explore, to entertain, to convince, and to express the challenges faced. Essay can also be written in response to a specific question. In this kind of essay, the point of view is presented with the help of a thesis statement. The aim of the researcher in an academic essay is to provide the thesis statement by presenting the argument. For writing the academic essay, a topic is selected and analyzed. After that an outline is prepared that is evaluated with the help of the resources. After the resources are collected, a rough draft is prepared and then edited, on the basis of which, a final draft is prepared.
