Eating too much salt can lead to unhealthy high blood pressure that usually causes cardiovascular disease. Opting to reduce the amounts of salt in food intake is probably the best natural cholesterol reduction method to avoid such disease. Health experts only recommend for adults about 1 teaspoon of salt each day. Though it may sound small, there are many delicious alternatives in reducing the intake of sodium.

Healthier Alternatives to Salt

Probably the best natural cholesterol reduction method to do is to reduce significantly eating foods that are canned or processed. High amounts of salt a typical adult eats are normally attributed from eating too much processed and canned foods. Foods such as frozen dinners, soups, and meats often use salt during its processing. Switching to eating foods that are fresh, unsalted meats, and cooking with natural ingredients rather than salt dramatically reduces the risks that sodium intake can give.

The best natural cholesterol reduction method is to cook with spices rather than salt for flavor. Such spices are delicious and healthier alternatives to salt. To achieve distinct and delicious tastes in dishes cooking with fresh herbs like chives, basil, thyme, etc are healthier alternatives. Such ingredients are usually available in the spice section of supermarkets. Commonly used herbs and spices like allspice, cumin, and bay leaves add flavor to meals without using salt. Choosing to consume salt substitutes or reduced sodium foods is very advisable. Package food and condiment consumption should always be done carefully, foods that are labeled unsalted, sodium free, and low sodium is always a healthier alternative.

Other Alternative Treatments

There are several alternative treatments in lowering cholesterol naturally. The best natural cholesterol reduction method can be combined with some supplements that are readily available today. It is always advisable to consult health experts before taking in any supplement or therapy. Improper use of said supplements can interact negatively with other medications and can even cause dangerous side effects.
