Hotel in Devon: How to make your trip Comfortable by Jinni

Article published on April 13th 2012 | Travel

Devon or Devonshire as people call it, is a large county in England. With famous towns like Plymouth, Exeter and Torbay, the county has a lot to offer to the tourists. From exploring the Tarka Trails to river rafting or just enjoying the day under the sun at the beautiful beaches, you can never get bored in Devon. There are many boutique hotels in Devon that can make your trip most memorable. With all the high-tech facilities like air-conditioner, television and wi-fi, you stay in the most beautiful rooms where you get personalized attention.

The county is the location of part of England's only natural UNESCO World Heritage Site, the Dorset and the East Devon Coast. It is also known as the Jurassic Coast because of the structure of the cliffs and millions of years of history. You can start exploring the vast coastline with the Orcombe Point in Exmouth where the rocks are millions of years old and red in colour. From here, reach Studland Bay in Dorset. In the Jurassic Coast, you can spot some dolphins and sharks. Also notice the vast variety of birds that have flown over to the coastline. There are plenty of things that you can do here. Cycling, water-sports, horse-riding, diving and fishing or just reading a book by the beach and enjoying the local cuisines, there is something for everyone.

You can also visit the town of Torquay to witness the lively sea-front shops and cafes and the delicious sea-food. Also visit the nearby villages of Babbacombe and St. Marychurch to sense the tranquillity and authenticity of countryside. One of the most visited towns in Devon is Plymouth. Visit the Plymouth Hoe and climb on the Smeartonâ€™s Tower Lighthouse to have an amazing view of the town. Reach the Plymouth Gin distillery which is the oldest distillery in England. The building was set up in 1400s. Take a guided tour of the place and know all about making gin. Visit the National Marine Aquarium, the largest aquarium in England, and explore the vast variety of species of the underwater. You can also take a cruise in the Plymouth Sound to explore the various beaches and cliffs and the Saltash Bridge. Another exciting town is Exter where the Norman Cathedral of St. Peter is the most famous. Vaulted ceilings, stained glass and the medieval houses, makes this church a perfect marvel. The Crearly Adventure Park is also visited by a lot of tourists. Visit the Kents Cavern to explore the history of human settlement.

Overall, Devon is filled with cliffs, beaches, churches, parks and wildlife. Stay in any of the hotels in Devon and explore this picturesque county.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/travel-articles/hotel-in-devon-how-to-make-your-trip-comfortable.htm - Article Side

Jinni - About Author:
Johansens.com offers Hotels information and online Hotels booking amenties in all over the world ,Boutique Hotels in Devon, a Hotels in Devon, Boutique Hotels in Devon, a Boutique Hotels in Devon, Boutique Hotels in London, Hotels in UK. More information Boutique Hotels in Devon & Hotels in Devon, so, please visit: http://www.johansens.com

Article Keywords:

Boutique hotels in Devon, Hotels in Devon

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!