

Article published on February 1st 2012 | Travel

Every year SKYTRAX gave award to different airlines for different categories like for best cabin, region, staff service, regional airlines and low "cost airlines fares. It is the world's most prestigious and trusted award in field of aviation. It Known as the Passengers Choice awards as Voted by over 18.8 million airline passengers from 100 different nationalities and based on independent passenger survey of airline standards.

It's not like "pay-to-win" award companies, it is the most prestigious and respected quality detection of front-line product and service standards across the world airline industry. This award reproduces customer satisfaction levels across 38 different items of airline front-line product and service.

Through this article I want to give information about the top three Indian Airlines whose fare is not expensive.

Indigo Airlines

In a ceremony in the French Air and Space Museum at the Paris Air Show, Indigo Airlines got the Best Low-Cost Airline award in Central Asia / India for customer Product and Service Quality at the 2011 World Airline Awards. This award is the good achievement for the staff and management of IndiGo Airlines. Experience is meeting an admirable standard and this is clearly something that the voting public appreciates.

IndiGo is a private domestic low-cost airline based in Gurgaon, Haryana, India. It operates domestic services linking 25 destinations. Its main hub is Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport.

Kingfisher Red

Kingfisher Red was the runners-up thus got 2nd place in the category in this Best Low-Cost Airline Central Asia / India. This low cost brand runs by Kingfisher airlines and headquartered in Mumbai, India. Kingfisher Airlines, obtain the airline in 2007 and it was known as "Simplify Deccan". In August 2008, it was announced the airline was re-branded as Kingfisher Red and operates under Kingfisher's IATA code IT.

This Famous Airline was established in 2003 and owned by bengaluru based united Breweries Group.. There are two main hubs of the Kingfisher airlines first one at the Bengaluru International Airport in Bengaluru and second the international airports of Delhi and Kolkata.

Spice jet

Ahead of Indigo and kingfisher Spice jet comes in 3rd position in the low-cost airline category. This inexpensive airline headquartered in Gurgaon, India. It began service in May 2005 and by 2008, it was India's second-largest low-cost airline in terms of market share. SpiceJet flies to 22 destinations across India and Nepal.

Over we can say that these Indian Airlines are the Best Low-cost airlines.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/travel-articles/top-three-indian-low-fare-airlines.htm> - Article Side

Travelhub - About Author:

The author is an amateur writer focusing primarily on worldwide traveling article and news about the travel companies like a Indian Airlines for a Airline Fares.

Article Keywords:

Indian Airlines, Airline Fares

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!