When people get tired of seeing dry lands around, they wish for water as their savior. We have a mindset of refreshment when we think of water. What place could be better than Goa for spending a memorable beach holiday? Water and water is everywhere, when we stay near the coastal line of Goa. People who wish to have an escape for such a time, Goa comes naturally to mind. During your tour to India, you would come across many amazing destinations. One of them is provided by Goa tourism. Beach life comes as a natural healer to the people who are sick of being bonded labors of their jobs. The jingle of Goa is most inviting, â€œGo Goaâ€•.

Beaches like Dona Paula, Calangute, Anjuna, Baga etc, will keep you very busy once you are there. Then you start exploring the place. Although it is being said that travel boom is somewhat interfering with the natural state and beauty of Goa, but people are coming nonetheless. Villages are said to be as charming as the beaches for which people mainly come to visit Goa. Goa tourism does not much publicize about its villages but they attract people who had their fill of city life of Goa. Just like any other place you visit on tour to India, Goa is best explored on rented bikes or hired cars. Do not forget to take advice of locals on the rents. In high peak of tourism seasons they could be exorbitantly high.

There is already lots of information about Goa tourism available on web. One can never feel out of place when he or she takes guidance from the people who have already been to the place before and they would be best person to inform you of the places you can get stuck or face problem being new. There are certain places that are known for their specifics like Candolim Beach for it liveliness, Dudh Sagar Waterfall being one of the highest waterfall of India that is situated near Bhagwan Mahavir Wild Life Sanctuary, etc. So while you are enjoying Goa on you tour to India, do not forget to include old Goa as well. It might seem just a religious indulgence to some but your trip is complete only when you have been to Basilica of Bom Jesus, Museum of Christian Art, Seâ€™ Cathedral Church, Church and Convent of St. Francis of Assisi, , etc.

Relish everything you see on your tour to India in but donâ€™t forget to be a part of Goa tourism.
