Article published on April 9th 2012 | Web Design

Whatâ€™s What?

Have you an idea what a Web Design company does? Okay how many internet sites do you regularly visit? A plausible answer would be 5 or 6. And out of those sites, there would be one or two emailing sites and one or two social media websites? Now, since they are Email and Social Media websites, they would be buzzing with people at any given point of time, so would it be a problem to manage such sites with high traffic. Is that whatâ€™s handled by a Web Development Company?

Well, the first thing is the purpose of a website. Then comes its designing, its functions, what it does for people and then designing the applications, also known as Web Application Development. And last but not the least is the upkeep of a site.

All the aforesaid is usually handled by a Web development Company.

There are a plethora of Web Developers providing Web Design Services as well as Development. Out of them certain enterprises cater to the growing need of websites from a distant destination, almost like outsourcing except the office (that works from a different location) is the branch of the parent organization that has taken the order. This is popularly called as Offshore Software Development.

Surging Ahead

http://www.ipraxa.com/ is a name thatâ€™s stood out of the extensive list of corporations providing wholesome solutions in Website designing and development.

For any structure to invoke interest, an eternal appeal is must. The designs doled out by this organization are not just high on the aesthetic scale but are operationally exceptional. The chief function of the company being conversion of design images into XHTML/CSS besides integrating 3rd party applications such as WordPress, Joomla, Magento, Drupal, Mambo,Textpattern, Expression Engine, Pligg, Typo3, Blogger, Shopify and others.

Leading the way in developing optimized Websites, Landing pages and Micro-sites, their sites fare successfully on the Search Engines as well. A significant detail which might comfort all of you who are thinking of getting a website made is that their complete code is written manually from start to finish and not just that it is standards compliant.

To boot, these websites are thoroughly consistent on all the prevailing browsers as well as operating systems.

The Must Haves

Every service provider must understand that needs of a website seeker are simple. All they want is a well optimized, smart looking website having all their preferred functions performing without a hitch. They should appear graceful; navigation should be smooth as silk and the experience-livening.

An attribute thatâ€™s often overlooked and underrated while availing any service in any industry is customer support. No one would return to a service provider if its technical reps donâ€™t answer your calls, much worse if they give you a puzzling or dubious response.

Living up to its promise- ipraxa.com stands by you 24/7, until your website's completion, via phone, email or chat-just as you like.

Furthermore, the delivery of your website is made within 3 business days and the updates start flowing to you after the first 24 hrs.

If youâ€™re among those who go by the â€˜whoâ€™s whoâ€™ your service provider has worked for, ther the clients they have attended to are Sony, Columbia Pictures, Auton.

Conclusion

Lasting impressions and impacts can be created, if the team youâ€™ve hired knows its job. They should be able to take care of all your reservations, uncertainties, however elementary they are, unassumingly - right from whatâ€™s World Wide Web to Link Building to WordPress integration or anything else under the sun.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/web-design-articles/adding-to-the-fabric-of-web-desingn.htm - Article Side

NicholasCarvera - About Author:
Amit Pankaj- is an expert commentator on a PSD to HTML Theme Integration,Web Application Development and Internet Marketing. Heâ€™s associated with ipraxa.com , an Offshore Software Development web agency that excels in providing top notch PSD to HTML and Integration with third party applications such as Magento, Wordpress, Drupal, Joomla, Movable Type et al. To hear the latest buzz about Web development, touch base with ipraxa.com via Facebook and Twitter.

Article Keywords:
Web Design Company, Web Development Company, Web Applications Development

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!