At a time when internet was launched owing a website is not about money, it's about the technical expertise that needed to create a website. With the advancement of technology now there are many DIY tools that helps you too create a website without any technical knowledge. Nowadays creating and hosting a website is very easy and you do not need huge technical knowledge. Now the web hosting companies also have affordable hosting plans which suits for all kind of business.

But selecting the right hosting company is always a tricky process, it is now not as easy as creating a website. It is complicated because it involves many factors. Before selecting a hosting company you should first know what kind of website you are planning to host, whether it is a personal website or a business website that is going to enhance your business. Depending on this need you can select the hosting provider.

In case if you are looking to create a website for personal use then selecting the hosting service is not going to be an issue. Say, if you are planning to host a personal blog then you can even go for a free hosting service. Free web hosting service is provided by platforms like wordpress and blogger. The advantage here is these platforms will allow you to even design your personal blog using the DIY tools on their interface. These free web hosting services also offer pre installed design themes which you can use to design your personal blog or website. Only disadvantage in using the free web hosting service is that your blog will lack security features and you will not be able to design it as per your wish.

On the other hand if your website is going to be commercial then it is best advised to go for paid hosting. Paid web hosting is recommended because being a commercial website your website needs upto date security features. And when it is commercial your website carries a brand for itself. Therefore, to enhance the brand value of your website your website needs a unique design and this is not possible with the free web hosting service. Moreover, paid webhosting make sure that your website stays online 99.99% and with free web hosting you do not have any guarantee on how frequent the website will break down.

The web hosting companies these days also offer affordable hosting plans which are even affordable to a startup company. For instance web hosting in singapore has become very affordable as web hosting singapore companies now offer more features in plans that are affordable. Therefore, to select a web hosting company one should first decide the kind website they would like to create.
