Best Company in Ecommerce, Email and Shared Hosting by Alan Smith

Article published on December 14th 2011 | Web Hosting

How does ecommerce hosting differ from regular web hosting? A commercial website selling products or services requires additional software and security measures.

Developing the Ecommerce Website

One of the best features on an ecommerce website should be the ease in which a product is accessed and purchased. You will not need any technical knowledge to keep track of orders when you use a PT cart or shopping cart.

The Prestige Technologies web development team has repeatedly provided its clients with websites that are highly functional and secure, because of their substantial experience with ecommerce hosting.

If your ecommerce business is not doing as well as it should, you need to check the functionality of your web design. Whether it is revamping an existing website or building a new one, if you want value for your money, Prestige Technologies is the answer.

While Prestige Technology experts are addressing all the technical issues of building a secure ecommerce site, you can monitor the progress. The company provides your website with a temporary address for this purpose.

Prestige Technologies and Shared Hosting

If you want to start an online business, you need a server to host your website. Prestige Technologies provides shared hosting. This means you have your own space on their server. This does not affect the efficiency of your website.

The decision to select shared web hosting is a wise and economical choice, especially for small businesses, as the cost of server maintenance is shared collectively by all the websites that use it.

There is no reason to assume the expense and associated hassles of maintaining a standard server when a shared one will work just as well. The basic plan includes email hosting â€“ you receive as many as 20 email accounts with this.

You can have up to 60 email accounts depending on the plan that fits you best. The bandwidth ranges from 2-to-50 GBs based on your package.

Why Should You Choose Prestige Technologies

The email hosting and shared web hosting setup is free and only takes a few minutes to activate. You only have to pay the monthly fee. A major issue with clients and service providers is after sales service.

At Prestige Technologies, 24/7 customer friendly service will take care of any road blocks no matter how big or small. The Prestige shared web hosting deal, comes with a 30-day money back warranty. Prestige Technologies is about customer satisfaction from start to finish.
